Communications

The Chamber works to ensure that you are informed on important developments in the community and are aware of issues affecting business. We do this through our newsletter, the Cashmere Business Journal, and in periodic email communications. For a low $25 insert fee, you may submit stories and inserts into the Cashmere Business Journal for business-to-business marketing.

Economic Development

The Chamber's leadership in Cashmere's shop local campaign, dubbed "Keep the Cash in Cashmere" features chamber members in local advertising, through our partnership with local media. In addition, we are investing in Cashmere's downtown by re-roofing aging canopies and by leasing a downtown parking lot for customers and employees.

Events Calendar

As a member, you are invited to submit items for our online community calendar, including business and civic events and concerts, club or organizational meetings and gatherings.

Tourism & Promotion

Cashmere's natural beauty and central location encourages a variety of outdoor pursuits. We work year-round to encourage tourists to visit the Cashmere area, thereby increasing the tourism dollars that flow into the local economy.

Visitor Information

As a member, you are entitled to use our Visitor's Information Center to display your business cards and brochures for walk-in visitors who are looking for goods and services. The Visitor's Center also includes tourist literature from the state and immediate area. We mail relocation and visitor's packets to people throughout the United States containing information on Cashmere businesses.

Working With You & For You

The Chamber works with the City of Cashmere, the Port of Chelan County, and other economic development partners to bring new businesses to the area.

We are a resource to help local businesses with expansion efforts or to maintain current levels of operations. We provide targeted business advice and assist local entrepreneurs with getting their enterprises started by connecting them with organizations such as SCORE, SkillSource and the Small Business Development Center that can provide essential business counseling and information.
